

環境職業醫學專題討論&工業衛生專題討論課程大綱

Goal of this course: After completing this course, all students should be able to conduct paper critique for subject areas that he/she is familiar with.

Session for class: Each week students are required to write down and submit two critique forms based on careful reading of two papers selected by students. And the student who chooses the paper should lead the discussion or critical comments on the assigned paper, while the responsible professor and teaching assistant also participate in the session. The substantive field is mainly health related, including occupational and environmental health. At the beginning of the class, the responsible student is required to spend 5-7 minutes in explaining the background of this paper, followed by a full hour of discussion and every student is required and encouraged to share his/her critique based on the preparation written on the critique form.
